ROBBED AS HE SLEPT

Burglars Ransacked Acting Capt. Clayton's House.

His Night Club Dropped from a Table and They Flew.

Secured $75 from His Trunkers Pockets and Packed Up Silver.

Allured by the supposition that they would secure a big booty in cash, burglars broke into the residence of Acting Police Capt. Elias P. Clayton, of the Coney Island station, at 1 o'clock this morning and ransacked the house.

After securing $75 one of the men accidentally knocked down the Captain's night-stick, which had been left lying upon a table, and the noise awoke Mrs. Clayton, who called her husband, and the burglars fled.

Clayton, who ranks as a sergeant and who was placed in command of the Coney Island precinct when the town of Gravesend was annexed to Brooklyn in July last, lives at Neptune avenue and Cortlandt street.

The burglars forced an entrance through a rear basement window. On the first floor they gathered up clothing, silverware and a few articles of bric-a-brac, which they placed on a table covered upon the floor. Then they ascended to the second floor, on which Capt. Clayton's bedroom is located.

After rummaging about the bureau drawers they entered the Captain's sleeping room. His trunks lay on a chair beside the bed. The burglars searched the pockets and took $75 and some change and dropped the garment upon the floor. When they found that they had secured all his money they got together a quantity of Mrs. Clayton's clothing. While gathering the contents of her wardrobe together the Captain's night stick rolled to the floor. Mrs. Clayton awoke with a start and heard the men running downstairs.

"Burglars!" shrieked Mrs. Clayton, and the policeman in the ribs. He

Peculiar Perils

Amidst our health in the Fall, when the season changes and mild weather gives way to chilling winds and cold storms, with dangerous warm waves between. This variable weather taxes the nervous energy, chills the skin and overloads the kidneys. An abundant supply of pure blood is then necessary to prevent the advance of disease, to nourish the nerves, renew the waste and sustain the health tone. To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the ideal Fall medicine. Remember.

jumped out of bed and started in pursuit, but the men had escaped from the Van Siclen station. A watchman who was on duty last night saw three men cross the tracks at 1 o'clock and walk in the direction of the Captain's house. It was too dark for him to see them well enough to describe them.

Yesterday was pay day in the Police Department, and the burglars, knowing that Clayton was the disbursing officer, may have thought that he still had the salaries of several policemen who had not called for their money in addition to his own monthly salary of $150.

As it happened, Capt. Clayton paid all his men yesterday before leaving the station, and spent about half of his own salary.

There is no clue to the identity of the thieves.

SAYS HE PRAYED FOR HER.

But Janitor Morrow Admits Carrying the Girl Upstairs.

William Morrow, janitor of a Helping Hand Mission at 150 Broadway, Brooklyn, was charged in the United States Police Court this morning with assisting fourteen-year-old Sarah McNamara, of 988 Jefferson avenue. On Tuesday Sarah accompanied Dora Mead, of 1540 Broadway, and Julia Nelson, of the mission, where they told her they had business. The two older girls told Sarah to call them when the bell was answered and walked down the street.

Morrow found Sarah McNamara alone, and she says he seized her and carried her upstairs and placed her on a lounge.

After dinner he dismissed her. Morrow admits taking Sarah upstairs, but says that he only carried her to her future welfare.

Morrow was held under $500 bonds for trial.

RISKED DIAMONDS AND ROLL.

Woodruff Got Drunk in Brooklyn and Was Arrested.

Had $2,800 in Cash and Wore Jewelry Valued at $3,000.

A man who said he was Frederick W. Woodruff, a real estate speculator, of 112 St. James place, Newark, N. J., was fined $1 by Justice Hagerty in the Myrtle Avenue Court, Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of intoxication.

Woodruff, when arrested, had in his possession nearly $3,000 in crisp bank notes, at least $2,000 worth of diamonds and a watch valued at $500.

He was arrested on grand avenue near Myrtle avenue, early last evening. Policeman Kellogg, of the Dekalb avenue station, saw him walking rather unsteadily and followed him to the Myrtle Avenue Court.

Woodruff, when taken to the station-house, where he told Sgt. Strong that he was forty-five years old and a bachelor.

"I came over to Brooklyn to have a friend living here and we had a party," Sgt. Strong questioned him as to the identity of his friend, saying that he would send for him.

"Oh, no," said the prisoner, "that would be impossible."

He was told that he might secure his release on furnishing $100 bail, but Woodruff said he would rather remain in the station-house. When the officer began searching Woodruff he brought up valuables which made Sgt. Strong's eyes bulge.

First he produced a roll of bills. There were two $1,000 notes and many bills of smaller denominations, all making a total of $2,800. The money, together with the diamonds, made an alluring display. After Woodruff had been locked up he complained of hunger, and asked the doorman to get him a meal. The doorman procured some food, paying for it out of the prisoner's "roll."

In court today he paid his fine, and then started for Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., SPEAKS.

Conscience leads me to tell my sad story, which may touch a tender chord in sympathetic hearts, regardless of creed or clime. Five years ago, while a dealer in Chinese curios at Newark, I became dangerously ill. My business vanished, health was gone, but God did not abandon me. Although born in pagan China, the Christian's God was my God.

A Christian lady gave me a mother's care, but my disease baffled medical skill, and I was treated for mania while I never had. At length it was diagnosed as LEO-MOTIV ATAXIA, the dreadful scourge of China. The most excruciating pains tortured me. I could not walk without help. My limbs wasted away until they became like sticks. Pierced with a shiver, I felt no pain, but when I closed my eyes I fell.

Alas! physicians declared me incurable and that I could not live a year. My benefactress was urged to place me in a hospital. Science had not mastered my dreadful disease, and death stared me in the face. Providence inspired her to appeal as a last resort to Dr. Spring, the eminent specialist on diseases of the brain, nerves, stomach and liver, residing at 140 West 23d st., New York. The case was so desperate that she feared a refusal. My joy was boundless when he said: "I will cure him." He kept his promise.

Nearly five years have gone since given up to die, but I am cured of my fatal disease. Dr. Kerr, physician in chief of the hospital in Canton, China, marveled at my cure, as the first he heard of in his experience of forty years. Drs. Vietsmaier and Mandeville, of Newark, examined me a second time eighteen months ago, and expressed astonishment at the change. I am a member of Dr. Hollifield's Third Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., whose sympathy I experienced during my long suffering. The age of miracles may be past, but Dr. Spring is a living proof that the age of scientific wonders is at hand.
